LIVESTOCK MARKET.

Kansas City, March 1.—(Bloomberg.)—There was a good advance in the cattle market Monday and Tuesday, but the strength has died out, and steers, including yearlings, are selling 10 lower today. The supply started out light, but there has been a fair run every day, making the total nearly up to last week for four days, and a large proportion of the general receipts has run to beef steers. Another thing, the packers have put up their usual talk about the adverse effect that the Lenten season always has on the sale of meats. The best steers that have appeared in quarantine this year were sold yesterday at $15.50, otherwise the top this week stands at $14.50, number one sales at $14.25 to $14.75, but a larger number of steers have sold at $13.75 to $14.25 this week than last. Cows reached $13.75 this week, highest price this month; also sold at $14.25 at $13.75, also record price, but they were very good. Most of the bulls sold at $12.50 to $13.75. February receipts of quarantines amount to 255 cars, an increase of 10 cars over Jan. February prices are 25 to 30 cents higher than the first of the month. Vends are 50 cents lower in the Jan. 1st, data, tops now selling around $14.50, top in quarantine divided this month $7.

The hog market has fluctuated violently lately and is 5c lower today, after reaching the best point of the year yesterday. Top today is $12.50, bulk of sales $10.05 to $11.50, light hogs up to $16.10. February receipts are 28,000 more than last February, and the price has averaged $11.25 higher this February also, average weight 214 this February against 203 last February. Majority of opinion favors still higher prices.

Sheep and lambs are 5 to 10 higher this week. Receipts are smaller and a good share of the stuff is en route from Colorado to Illinois feed lots. Top lambs this week $6.50, bulk $6.15 to $6.45, but nothing has been here. Yearlings sell at $7.75 to $8, wethers nearly as high; some prime ones today, 122 pounds. Westerns at $5.90, ewes at $5 to $5.20, mainly, choice ones this week at $5.35, common ones $4.25 to $4.75. It is hoped, the strength shown this week will be maintained.

ODDS AND ENDS

They have a rough-and-ready, but none-the-less effective way of punishing people for debt in Sierra Leone. The debtor's leg is attached to a heavy tree-log which the hapless man is compelled to drag about with him wherever he goes. The log is not removed until the debt is paid—which usually happens pretty promptly, according to say. If every debtor in this country were subjected to similar treatment—but the idea is too appalling to be carried further.

Nature goes to work in a curious fashion in some parts of the world. Without the least warning a pool of salt water suddenly appeared in North Carolina. This mysterious pool is about a hundred and seventy feet in circumference, fifty-nine feet across, and thirty feet deep. The cause of its appearance is somewhat difficult to state, the district being of coral formation, but it is generally attributed to underground streams. The natives, needless to say, looked upon the pool with great awe, and crowds came daily to inspect the phenomenon.

California is to America what Italy is to Europe—a land of sunshine, vineyards and fruit trees, intersected by rugged mountain ranges from whose summits fertile valleys, studded with corn and fruit farms, can be seen stretching away until they merge into the foothills of yet other ranges. It is a land of orange groves and almond trees, irrigation works and settlements, through the length and breadth of which is to be found the all pervading poppy flourishing in the most extravagant profusion. Residents in these districts practically ignore the poppies, but tourists and stray visitors are always enchanted by their beauty. So inseparable is the poppy from any Californian landscape that the brilliant orange-yellow Eschscholzia has been officially adopted as the emblematic flower of the state.

Younger Wants Geronimo.
Lawton, Ok., March 1.—Chief Geronimo, the famous Apache warrior, was visited today by Cole Younger, who wishes to secure the services of the old chief for his wild west show next season.
